The Kane County State's Attorney has secured a prison sentence for an Aurora man who tried to kill someone in July 2016.

22-year-old Aaron Tolamac on Oct. 4, 2017, pleaded guilty to attempted murder, a Class X felony in exchange for a sentence of 12 years' imprisonment in the Illinois Department of corrections.

Circuit Judge Donald M. Tegeler, Jr., accepted the plea.

Kane County Assistant State's Attorney Mark D. Stajdohar stated during the court hearing that at about 2:15 p.m. July 21, 2016, the victim received a message via social media to step outside of his house on North Fourth Street in Aurora. When he did, Tolamac fired four shots from a .45 caliber handgun and fled. The victim wasn't struck, and no one was injured.
